

Overpopulation of Geese: Periodically Eagle Springs experiences an overpopulation of geese.

The majority of the geese in Eagle Springs are classified as an endangered species and a permit must be obtained to reduce their population. Our property manager has applied for a permit, and we are getting an estimate of the cost to relocate as many as can be captured.

If the relocation quote is within our budget, action will be taken to relocate a number of them. However, residents feeding the geese make it a desirable location for them to return to, so we ask your cooperation in not feeding the geese.

The property manager has been spraying the sidewalks and playground equipment in an effort to reduce the waste left by the geese. Additionally, the lifeguards will be sweeping the sidewalks as time permits.

Unfortunately, something that is aesthetically pleasing can cause real problems.
